Dear Reader,

Just before going to England, I went on an early morning road trip looking for a particular sunrise location. I think the sunrise pictures will become a time lapse experiment. I also found happy cows. Both cows and penguins make me smile. Cows though are easier to find in these parts.

I'm pretty sure I know exactly where you were standing for the first one. Cows can be fun, though there's one particular song by Dana Lyons that might make you think twice about it. I'm liking sky shots lately, and the one with the gate is serene.
