

A LIQUID STUDY

Posted on 2017-12-10 2019-12-16 by spd_wp_admin

Dear Reader,

Here is the first of the 3 or 4 galleries from an extended weekend in Banff shared with my wife and 2 friends. Last year we made the same trip, and the day time highs were -25C. This year it was down right balmy and we could walk comfortably from town to Bow Falls. I was struck by the contrast between dark waters and old ice.

© Sean P Drysdale
2017-12-banff-water-4 -

© Sean P Drysdale

2017-12-banff-water-5 -

© Sean P Drysdale

2017-12-banff-water-2 -

© Sean P Drysdale

2017-12-banff-water-3 -

© Sean P Drysdale

2017-12-banff-water-1-

Cheers, Sean

2 Replies to “A Liquid Study”

1. Linda says:

2017-12-10at 21:02Edit

If it weren't for a hint of blue, the viewer could mistake these for B&W photos. I love the jumble of ice in these photos. I swear I see the image of a crushed skull in one of them. I dare you to find it!

1. spd_wp_admin says:

2017-12-10at 21:42Edit

Which skull—I found more than one