

AN ALBERTA MORNING

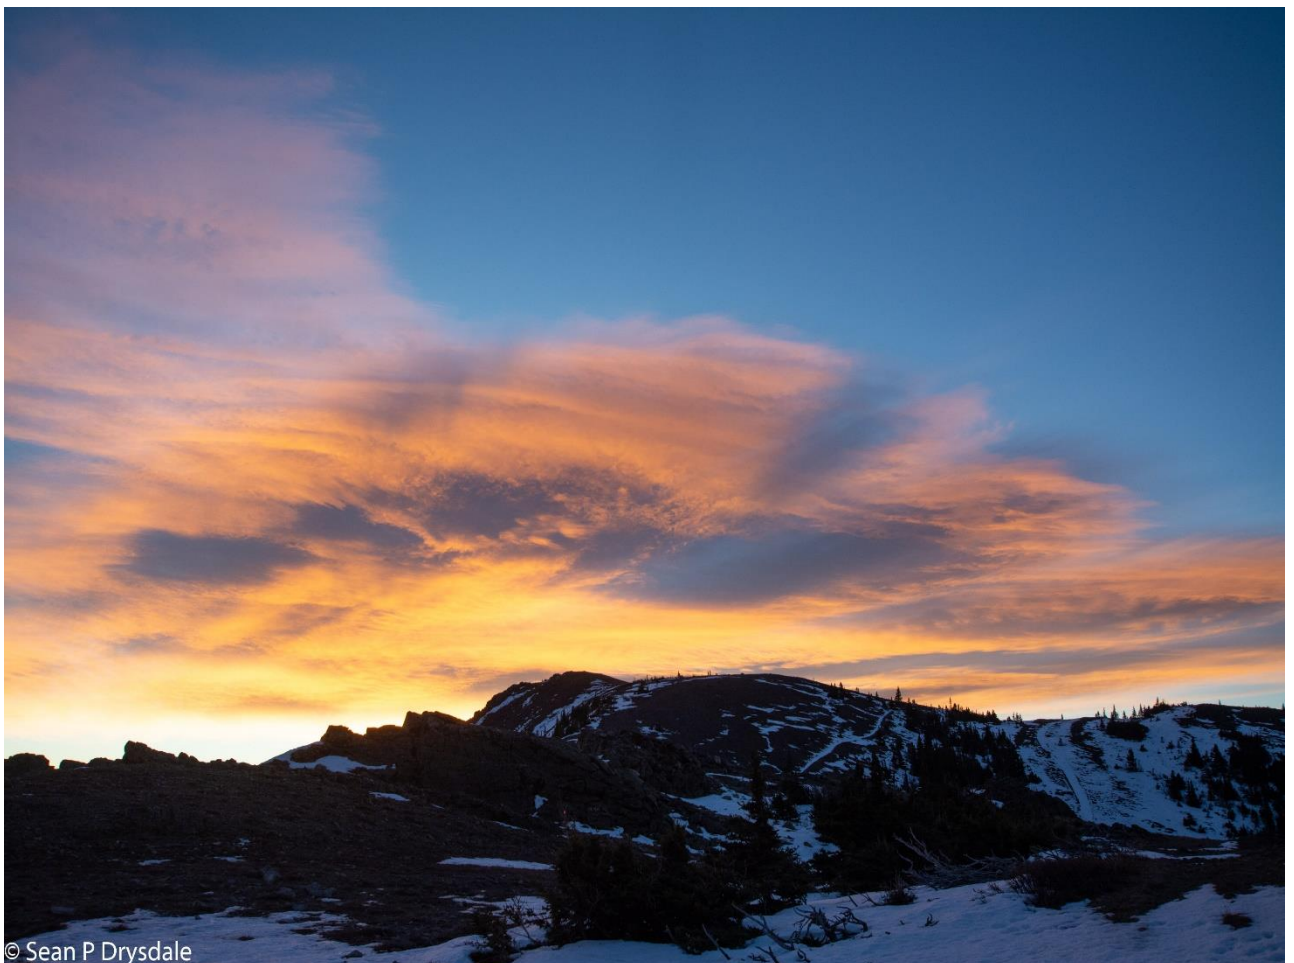

Posted on 2018-10-21 2019-12-17 by spd_wp_admin

Dear Reader, 2018-10-21

In answer to the question, so, what happened? I can't really explain. The shutter continues to click and I haven't felt much like sharing.

Yesterday morning, while April slept, I returned to a familiar place with a single capture in mind. Guess what, the sun no longer rises in its summer location. For a sometimes-bright man I do seem to forget seasonal basics. Ah well, the morning had its rewards.

The last image was on the drive home. In colour the photo was banal. In black and white, I like it.

I know where you went! That’s the thing with sunrise shots, you never know what you’re going to get. These are not the bold and dramatic sunrises that come along sometimes, but they have their charms.
