

FIVE STANS 05

Posted on 2023-10-23 by spd_wp_admin

Dear Reader (2023-10-23),

Since I last wrote, I have completed the first set of experiments for my Exposure Festival 2024 Exhibition, "Shadows Passing". I am excited by the project, and I look forward to showing you the results next February.

In today's post we travel from Kazakhstan into Kyrgyzstan. Cows are expensive to feed from a food perspective. Instead, throughout the Stans, horse herding has a long history. All the images except for the man on the horse, and the old train carriage were taken through a bus window.

Quality Control Note: An occasional reader has commented that he finds the font faint on this website. Though I have been unable to replicate the issue, I have made a slight change to how I handle text. If anyone else finds the type difficult to read, please let me know, and I will investigate further.
